
A look at the data sheet says the Molykote contains silicone oil.

While fine for rubber o-rings like MagLite but if I remember correct it'll dissolve silicone o-rings (jelly like o-ring typically for some China manufacturers and infamous with DX/KD lights).

Try some Super Lube grease instead. Even a small can will last almost forever. That's the beauty of Super Lube. You can use it for almost anything without worrying. It lubes very well too and keep items lubricated for longer than most other lubricants too.

So get some SL and see if DX got some o-rings in the right size if you want them cheap
